MACON CHAMPION CONFESSES CRIME --JOINS SOLDIERS

Tells County Judge Wells
Where Paraphernalia is Hidden.

Detail of Soldiers Guarding Place on Blood River.

DEVELOPMENTS AT MURRAY

Murray, Ky., April 14.—Soldiers are guarding a cave on Blood river, where night riders are alleged to have hidden their paraphernalia.

It is stated that Champion was mustered into the national guard, Company H, of the Second regiment, and is on guard today.

Joe Bell, the alleged night rider leader, was arrested again today and made bond the second time.

It is believed more arrests will be made today, although the grand jury has made public no indictments.

Judge Wells has made public the confession of Macon Champion, a member of the night riders. The confession is sworn to, and implicates about fifteen men who are not under arrest.

The confession is as follows: "The affiant, Macon Champion, says that a few days before the raid on Al Perry I was at D. L. Thomas' store."

He called me out and said: 'Let's join the night riders. There is a whole lot of fun attached to it.' He said that they were working on the road right below the store, and follow him down there; that he could put himself in and me, too.

Then we all went down to the lane toward Buffalo, and he said that he would get over into the fence corner and get the map out to take us in."

He told me to lie down on my right knee, and I got down, and he got down. He told me to hold up my right hand, and he took a piece of paper out of his coat pocket and read the oath to me. I cannot repeat the oath.

To Tell Means Death.

"After giving the oath which was to the effect that if I gave it away I would be killed and ended 'so help me God.' He said to me if you do not understand the oath it means this, if you ever tell it that a clique of them would take my head."

"Told me that on Monday night they were going to have a meeting down in an old field close to Jeff Kimbro's. I told him I did not know the way."

He said come down the road and you will meet up with some of them who would show me the way. I went on Monday night to and called out, and we went on to and called out. He was sick and couldn't go. He came there while we were talking to. We went on to and called out. He would go as they came on back. Right below 's we met and went on to and met and and they joined our crowd. We went on to the meeting place in an old field close to Jeff Kimbro's."

Instructed as to Shooting.

"Just before getting to the old field all that had masks put them on. Affiant had none but was furnished one soon after he got there. That group kept coming up from different directions, but when they reached there they were masked. That he recognized Joe Bell and that Joe Bell lined up Joe Bell and two and told us to ride not farther than ten feet and if attacked, on the right those on the left do the shooting. We lined up and rode on about 175 or 200 strong. We went on and got just below Mallory school house."

"Some fellow says, 'I am awful tired, I want to get up yonder and hit that '—forty or fifty, and I think that will rest me."

Whipping of Al Perry.

"We went on to below Noah Moody's and got down and hitched our horses, and about half of them stayed with their horses. The other half went on to Al Perry's. Some one of the leaders said if Perry fired for all of us to open fire on him. They told us to lie down around the house. We went to the house and surrounded the house and laid down as ordered. Captain Bell called for Al Perry. Said hello to Mr. Perry about two or three times. He came out. The leaders had a talk with him and left it to a vote as to whether they would whip him or not, and they voted to whip and whipped him. We then went on back to our horses and left. I dropped out below John Morgan's and went home. I lost a sack that night."

"Before we got on our horses the leaders hallooed for No. 2 clique, and I answered. Told me to start next morning by daylight or a little before and over in the bottom where we came through, and it was so dark, and by Mallory's schoolhouse and pick up all the hats and caps I could find and cut them up and stick them under a log or logs. I did as directed except that I put them in the creek. I found a cap or two and hat or two."

Soldiers Sent Out.

After getting the confession Judge Wells started a squad of soldiers, under Lieut. N. J. Wilburn, for the creek to find all the hats and caps he could. Judge Wells said he would not issue warrants now, but if the present grand jury failed to indict any of the men under arrest that he would immediately have the men implicated arrested and ask Judge Cook for another grand jury.

The river was so high the soldiers could not reach the cave, but a squad is guarding the place until the water subsides.

Politics Eliminated.

One of the most happy results of the many happenings of the past few days, the importance of which is realized by every one familiar with Calloway county affairs, is that the old factional feeling in the night rider prosecutions has been averted and it is now apparent that the best element of both sides are working in harmony to rid the county of the scourge of night riders.

After the trials Saturday it was freely asserted that before two days had elapsed the old sores in the county would be reopened and perhaps personal feeling fanned until an outbreak would occur Monday. This dreaded contingency was averted by the cool-headed leaders of both sides, who realize that factions had nothing to do with night riders. They got together, according to well authenticated information, and agreed to lay aside all past differences for the present time at least, and will work together to bring about a return to law and order. Wise heads believe that in this a permanent union may be effected and the county freed not only of night riders but of personal prejudices, to a great extent.

Even Judge Wells and Judge Cook were on opposite sides, in county and district politics, and have been firm in the antagonism of each other, politically, but it cannot be disputed that both have arisen to the occasion and are working toward the same end.

The Attorneys.

Attorney F. P. Acree, of Murray, who is retained to defend the Calloway county night riders, asked the Sun to correct the statement made Saturday that he had retained M. E. Gilbert, a young Paducah attorney, to assist him. Hon. J. C. Speight, Mr. Acree's law partner, was in Murray Monday consulting with Mr. Acree, and the friends of some of the accused men, but whether an arrangement was made was not given out.

New York Mayorality Suit.

New York, April 14.—The suit brought by William R. Hearst to test the right of George B. McClellan to the office of mayor of New York city was called for trial before the appellate division of the supreme court.

The suit had its origin in the city election of 1904, when McClellan and Hearst were rival candidates for the mayorality. Mr. Hearst alleges that Mr. McClellan's election was brought about by fraud at the polls. The contest has been dragging through the New York courts for more than two years.

ARGUMENT BEGUN IN HOWARD'S PLEA FOR PARDON TODAY

Frankfort, Ky., April 14. (Special.)—Attorney Smith began his argument this morning before the governor in the Howard case. The Powers case is to follow.

Attorney General James Breathitt has appointed John F. Lockett, of Henderson, first assistant attorney general.

R. L. Barnett, State Organizer, Called Meeting to Arrange Agreement With Planters' Association.

About 150 members of the Farmers' Union are meeting today in Central Labor hall, where a joint meeting of the union and the high officials of the Planters' Protective association was scheduled to take place. None of the latter, however, were in attendance. Felix Ewing sent word that business prevents his presence, and although John M. Allen is in the city, he is not participating in the conference.

The McCracken County association offered to send a committee of three to the conference but R. L. Barnett, state organizer for the union, said the conference was to be with men, having authority to represent the association of the whole state of Kentucky, so nothing came of that.

The attitude of the association toward the union is expressed in the term "standing pat." Felix Ewing a few weeks ago in a public letter pronounced all other organizations, however friendly in their attitude, inimical to the interests of the Planters' Protective association, but the McCracken County association does not interpret this in a hostile sense toward the union. The officials of the union say they are determined not to interfere with the association and its members, and after today's session there will be no fighting inside against the union or any other organization.

It is also discovered in talking among the members that the majority of them are in favor of the loose leaf pool, which is in vogue in this state now. The holdings of the union have been sold and the money divided.

The meeting this morning was called to order at 10 o'clock and R. L. Barnett, state organizer, was elected chairman, and C. O. Pogue, of Crittenden county, secretary. The nine counties organized were all represented. Adjournment was taken at noon, and this afternoon the executive session was resumed.

Association's Attitude.

Mr. J. L. Yarbrough, chairman of the McCracken county executive committee, stated this morning that he thought no association official would have any authority to go into the meeting today called by the farmers' union people. "We are not antagonizing the farmers' union in any way, but we have established our system of handling tobacco and it has proven successful, and there is no reason to make any change," he said. From his talk it was plain that in order to get together the farmers' union must come over to the association.

New York, April 14.—Today is the day for the brass bands to blare and the mobs to roar for the great double barreled, six months' circus of baseball has been turned loose in the clubs of the National and American leagues start today in the pennant race for 1908.

The "fans" have thawed out and are heaping blessing upon the head of Harry Wright, A. G. Spalding, or whoever it was that invented baseball. For more than a month their appetite has been whetted by the rosette reports from the southern training camps.

If they do not turn out in full force in every city of the two circuits to see the first ball tossed this afternoon it will be the fault of the weather man.

New York is to see the celebrated Highlanders make their bow at the home grounds, engaging the Philadelphia team in combat royal, while the Giants will wrestle with the "Phillies" in the Quaker City.

From now until the second week of October New York is to have continuous baseball and both managers and "fans" are looking forward to the banner year in the history of the game.

WOOD JONES AND JESSE EDWARDS DRAW TEN YEARS FOR ROBBERY OF KERRY SLAYDEN AT HANDS OF JURY.

What the McCracken County Criminal Court is Doing in Way of Punishing Offenders—Some Other Verdicts.

Ten years, the limit of the law, is what Wood Jones and Jesse Edwards, young white men, were given by the jury in circuit court this morning for robbing Kerry Slayden a Woodville farmer of $105 in an alley near the Jackson school. Officer William Wiant, of Metropolis, who caught the men, was present at the trial and assisted the prosecution materially in its case. Mr. Wiant recovered $33.33 of the money and a lot of clothing, that the men had bought with the remainder, accounting for all that Slayden lost except $2.

Jodie Davis, colored, was given one year in the penitentiary for shooting John Grogan during a fight at a colored social.

A fine of $200 was given Mollie Neef for violating the contempt rule issued by Judge Reed last week. The Neef woman occupies the same house where she was forbidden to conduct an immoral resort. She was convicted and fined in police court for selling whisky and the contempt proceedings followed. The case was tried by a jury and the verdict imposing a fine of $200 was returned.

CONGRESS PLANS TO END PRESENT SESSION MAY 15

Republican and Democratic Leaders Agree to Do Nothing More This Term.

Providing President Accepts Situation as Suggested.

WANT NO SPECIAL SESSION

Washington, April 14.—Congress will adjourn on May 15, if tentative agreements made today by the Democratic and Republican leaders in the house and senate are carried out. The agreement to adjourn at this early date carries with it the understanding that none of the measures demanded by the president shall pass, and will provide further that the president will accept the situation and will not call a special session after the election.

The Democrats have made all of the campaign speeches for general distribution, and the Republicans do not care to take up any bill which might provoke a long political discussion.

Senators Aldrich and Hale got together and both agreed that the session might as well be ended without further delay. Senators Culberson and Bacon and others on the Democratic side were consulted, and they agreed to the plan to get away.

Meanwhile Representative Watson, the Republican whip in the house, had a talk with the president as to measures to be considered and the plan of the house leaders to adjourn early, provided the president would agree to not call an extra session as soon as they adjourned and begin a fight to have the bills he has been advocating passed.

This part of the program remains unsettled, and Mr. Watson and other Republican leaders are to have a talk with the president in the white house tonight.

Mr. Holland is thoroughly grounded in the hardware business, having been with the Belknap Hardware company at Louisville, as well as with the Henneberger company. Many warm friends here join in regrets for his departure and best wishes for his future success.

TUBERCULOSIS HOSPITAL NEEDED IN THIS COUNTY.

Secretary Toner, of the Charity club has been investigating the need for an outdoor tuberculosis hospital in connection with the club work in this city. He says that he knows of at least a dozen women in various stages of the disease, who are denied admittance either to the county sanitarium or Riverside hospital; because of the nature of the disease from which they suffer. Some of them are only in the preliminary stages and the open-air treatment, which has recently been recommended and approved by many physicians, might accomplish an entire cure. It has been suggested that such a hospital be made a part of the new institution, which is to be established through the joint efforts of the city and county, for the treatment of contagious diseases.

Mayor Smith has called the general council to meet tonight as committee of the whole to consider the franchise of the Paducah Northern railroad. The representatives of the company will be present, and such citizens as may have personal interests involved in the proposed route into the city.

MEET AT KNOXVILLE TODAY FOR SEMI-ANNUAL SESSION.

Men Who Were in Paducah Last Fall
Enjoying Hospitality of East-Tennessee.

Knoxville, Tenn., April 14.—The largest meeting of coal men ever held in the south is on at Knoxville. Great preparations have been made by the coal operators of the Tennessee-Kentucky coal fields to show the visiting coal men a good time. It is a joint meeting of the members of the South-eastern Retail Coal Merchants' association and the Kentucky-Tennessee Retail Coal Dealers' association. Since the coal operators are to be on hand, it may be said that it is a meeting of the operators and dealers of the south-east and Kentucky, the invitations being to all dealers and operators, whether members of either association or not.

The operators have arranged for a banquet, steamboat and trolley rides, a visit to the mines and a big Korus-cation of Ko Kools. The convention was opened with an address of welcome from the mayor of the city and responses were made by George M. Chowning, of Shelbyville, Ky., and C. O. Harper, of Rome, Ga.

A joint session of Wednesday morning will be addressed by L. Green, traffic manager of the Southern railway; C. D. Boyd, general freight agent of the Louisville and Nashville railroad; De Los Bull, president of the retail coal men, and J. A. Yarbrough, of Charlotte, N. C.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, it has pleased Divine Providence in His inscrutable wisdom to remove from our midst and take to His heavenly home our late beloved brother, John T. Fisher, late treasurer and financial secretary of our order. Therefore be it

Resolved, That this lodge, Catholic Knights of America, branch No. 15, of Paducah, Ky., has suffered the loss of a zealous, efficient and worthy member and brother; a loss that will ever be noticed and felt and one that is a sad blow to our order.

Resolved, That the city has lost a good citizen; one who spread a good example as a law-abiding, industrious and exemplary man.

Resolved, That we sincerely condole with his wife, daughter, sisters and brother, and hope that while his memory will, we are certain, ever remain green in their memory and also in the memory of this order, that the healing hand of time will gradually assuage the poignancy of their grief over their heavy affliction.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon a memorial page of the records of our order; that a copy thereof be furnished to our late brother's bereaved family and that they be published in the Paducah Daily Sun.

SCHOOL NOTES

Thirty-one male students of the High school were "on the carpet" before Superintendent Carnagey this morning for plotting to be tardy yesterday morning, because the teachers had made a rule that students must not enter the school grounds before the regular time. Yesterday the boys it is alleged, met by agreement on a street corner and after waiting until the last bell had sounded and the pupils were seated in their places, marched in a body to the school. They were given a reprimand this morning and allowed to go under promise to be good hereafter.

Mr. J. J. Berry, who was to have addressed the High school pupils this morning, telephoned Superintendent Carnagey he would be unable to be present and requested that he be given a date later in the week, which was done.

Miss Elizabeth Daugherty, teacher of the Seventh grade at the High school, is ill today.

Miss Lucy Moore, teacher of the fifth grade at the Longfellow school, is off duty today on account of sickness.

Suggestions for Teachers' Meeting
Friday, May 8, 1908.

(Chapters 13, 14, 15, Keith's Elementary Education.)

The questions on "Theory and Practice of Teaching" for the teachers' examination will be based upon Keith's work. The appendix and questions for study will be very helpful to those who are preparing for that examination.

1. Discuss the nature of attention and interest, giving the factors that make for the continuance of each.

2. The self grows through its activity. Attention assures this activity. Therefore, how does attention foster appreciation? What is the effect of attention upon the retention of experiences? Explain the sentence: "Attention is the sine qua non of instruction."

3. Upon what things does class interest depend?

4. Upon what things does class attention depend?

5. Show the relation of participation to class interest and attention.

6. How are habits of attention formed and what are their values? Same for permanent lines of interest.

7. Read the preface in connection with Chapter XIV and discuss the points of both. Why should the teacher be mature? What is it to be mature? How can the teacher come to understand the development of the child? Why is guidance necessary for inexperienced teachers?

8. What should be the underlying

9. Read and discuss in a critical way the theses of Chapter XV. What would you think of these theses as basal points in a teacher's conception of what his work involves?

and dominating motive of the teacher?

10. Read the "Analytical Summary" asking yourself regarding each sentence, "Is it true?" "What relation does it bear to effective teaching?"

Louisville, Ky., April 14.—Governor Johnson, of Minnesota, was given his first formal introduction to the Democrats of Kentucky at a banquet of the Jefferson club, where he delivered the principal address of the evening. He was introduced by Governor Willson, a Republican.

Johnson's speech, while rather brief, touched upon Democratic principles and the development of Jeffersonian doctrines by present day needs.

EX-PITCHER AS CONGRESSMAN.

J. K. Tener, Once Famous in National League, Gets G. O. P. Nomination.

Pittsburg, April 14.—Almost like a page from "The Arabian Nights" is the story of the life of John K. Tener, who, to the surprise of every one, was nominated by the Republican convention for member of congress from the Twenty-fourth congressional district to succeed Ernest F. Acheson, who for fourteen years has held the seat and was supposed to have almost a life claim on it.

Less than twenty years ago, John K. Tener was famous as a National league baseball pitcher. Today, besides being sure of a seat in congress, Mr. Tener is the grand exalted ruler of the Elks, and is a banker whose check would be honored without question for $1,000,000.

From 1885 to 1889 John Tener was a pitcher for the Pittsburg and Chicago teams. In 1889 A. G. Spaulding sent a team of ball players around the world, and Tener was selected as one of the pitchers.

Tener then retired from baseball and started in the real estate business in Charleroi, on the Monongahela river, forty miles above Pittsburg. He bought and sold coal lands, built houses and then started a bank.

Time Isn't Money in London.

The operation of the great banking houses of London is typical of England. The bankers, like most of the business men of the metropolis, are very polite, but also like other Englishmen, carry on business in a way that seems extremely deliberate to Americans, says the Kansas City Star. An American called it one of the London banks a few days ago to buy a New York draft for $30. It was then about 10:30 o'clock in the morning. The teller requested a memorandum of his wants and then, bowing, said: "Thank you, sir. The draft will be ready for you at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. Will you call for it or may I mail it to you?"

This was not an isolated case. It is simply London's way. When a person makes a deposit he is given no pass or deposit book, and he is required to pay a small amount for his checkbook. On beginning business with the bank he signs his name in a large record book and the signatures on the checks he draws subsequently.

which, of course, must correspond with that in the large book, are the only evidence of deposit he has to offer. A woman depositor must, immediately upon her marriage, furnish the bank with her new signature. Some bankers even require her to produce the certificate of her marriage.

The paying teller is provided with a small shovel and when a person withdraws a portion of his account or cashes a check, the clerk lifts the money in the shovel and from that utensil empties the coin upon the counter in front of the customer.

Indignant Citizen—Say! Your boy threw a stone at me just now and barely missed me. Mr. Grogan—Yez say he missed ye? Indignant Citizen—That's what I understood myself to remark. Mr. Grogan—It was not my b'y.—New Century.

THE WRONG END OF THE HORN.

"Ah, there, old Sole Leather!"

"Oh, your Uncle Willy is on to all such tricks as that!"

"Ah! That's a new wrinkle, is it?"

The Elephant: "You'll know when you are well off next time, my friend."

"Now, how do you like that?"

"The next time you want to moshky take some one of your size!"

The Funny Things One Sees

By
MARSHALL P. WILDER

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

While at the Imperial hotel, Tokio, we were permitted to witness a portion of a Japanese wedding, that is, the feast and reception. Like our Hebrew friends in America, the Japanese hire the parlors of a hotel, chiefly because their little doll houses are so small. It was very funny; the women all like embarrassed images, done up in their best kimonos and not saying a word, while the men, in stiff, badly-fitting European "store clothes," stood around in little groups and talked, looking like animated tailors' dummies.

One young man picked out a native air on the piano with one finger, while the children were the only ones who were at all happy, or didn't look as if they wished they hadn't come.

Says Mrs. Peace to Miss Sharp, a caller: "My husband and I never dispute before the children. When a quarrel seems imminent, we always send them out."

Miss Sharp: "Ah, I've often wondered why they're so much in the street!"

Hateful thing, wasn't she?

Japanese trains are small and slow, and seem not to think it necessary ever to be on time. Smoking is allowed in every class, even in the sleeping cars.

The bedding is clean and sufficient, but there are no springs in the beds, absolutely no privacy, and one tiny window for the whole compartment, public opinion being usually divided as to whether it shall be opened or closed.

This reminds me of a story my friend, Col. Cody ("Buffalo Bill") used to tell. He said that once upon a time an Englishman who had never been in the west before was his guest. They were riding through a Rock Mountain canyon one day, when suddenly a tremendous gust of wind came swooping down upon them, and actually carried the Englishman clear off the wagon seat. After he had been picked up, he combed the sand and gravel out of his whiskers and said:

"I say! I think you overdo ventilation in this bloomin' country!"

My berth was over the wheels, and this, together with a roadbed of which a coal railroad in Pennsylvania would be ashamed, produced such jolts and bumps that my brain felt as though it had been through an egg-beater. The compartment was full, one occupant being a German army officer, who, beside being in full uniform, even to enormous fur-lined overcoat, sword and spurs, brought in to choke the little available space a satchel, a large flat wicker hamper and a packing box. He also had a very industrious and far-reaching snore with him.

The third occupant being a traveling Catholic priest and, like the soldier, Picked Out a Native Air on the Piano.

lier, a man of huge proportions, I was rather interested to know which of these was to occupy the berth over me, for it seemed a flimsy sort of affair, and I took particular pains to see that it was well propped up.

I was rather relieved to find it was to be the soldier, for I consoled myself with the old adage that the pen is mightier than the sword and decided it would be a worse calamity to have the church down on me than the army. Even if sleep with all these considerations had been possible, the frequent stops would have completely put it to light, for the moment a train arrives at a station, no matter what the time of night, the sellers of lunch boxes, hot milk, tea or tobacco begin to cry their wares, in tones that are like the wailings of lost souls, and for penetration and volume unequalled by anything in my experience.

The sellers of tea at the stations will give you a small teapot filled with hot tea, and a tiny cup, all for three cents, or a cent and a half in American money.

At the railroad stations during the war with Russia one was sure to see parties of wounded soldiers returning from the front; or those who were departing for the seat of war. These latter were always attended by a crowd of men and women, who waved as the train moved away. This shout is really more of a screech than a good, round cheer, such as would be heard in America, for it seems as if there is some physical reason why the Japanese people cannot raise their voices without producing the most blood-curdling sounds. The street cries are all strident and unpleasant; the commands of officers to their men tiny and rasping-like, while Japanese singing, to a foreigner, is conducive to nervous prostration.

I have spoken somewhat of the external attitude of these people. Of their interior attitude of heart and mind much more might be said, especially in regard to their late war with Russia, which was going on at the time of my visit. This was something they would not talk about. Any mention of the subject was met with an adroit change of the conversation to other channels; but intense patriotism, the most supreme confidence in their ultimate success reigned in every heart. Examples of the most heroic self-sacrifice were not lacking. A Japanese mother had given her three sons to the war. The first was reported slain. She smiled and said, "It is well. I am happy." The second lay dead upon the field. She smiled again, and said, "I am still happy." The third gave up his life, and they said to her: "At last you weep!" "Yes!" she said, "but it is because I have no more sons to give to my beloved country!"

Now, this is all very beautiful, but as my mission in life is laughter instead of tears, I want to say that it reminds me of a little story of our country and our war—the war of the great rebellion. When, in answer to the call for troops, the blood of our noble volunteers had been poured out upon southern fields for three long years, there arose a class of men called "bounty jumpers" who, acting as substitutes for drafted men and taking a large sum of money for the job, sometimes "jumped the bounty" and disappeared instead of going to the front to serve Uncle Sam. These men were subjected to a medical examination which, in the hands of unscrupulous physicians (who received a large fee if the man "passed"), was not always as rigorous as it should be. A doctor who was seen coming out of the examining room with a very sour face was greeted by a friend with a "Hello, Doc! What's the matter? Didn't you pass your man?"

"Pass nothin'!"

"Why, he looked all right!"

"All right! Why he was sound as a nut, but the colonel of the regiment suggested we stand him up on a high table and make him jump to the floor, and, by Jove! if his confounded glass eye didn't fall out and spoil the whole business!"

The working class still cling to the ancient costume and methods. Today ladders are made of bamboo, the rungs lashed fast with rope, as they have been made for generations. The streets are watered with little carts having a row of holes at the back, and pulled by men, who fill them slowly and laboriously one bucket at a time, while the sidewalks are watered by two perforated buckets, suspended from a bamboo pole laid across the shoulders of a man, who trots in and out between the people, turning and twisting until the walk is thoroughly sprinkled.

Everything seems to be done the hardest way, and those who work, work very hard. The few men who have a horse dray never sit and drive, even when the dray is empty, but always walk ahead, dragging the patient brute along. Loads are more frequently carried on hand-carts, pulled by men, women or boys. In going up a hill three or four men will pull or push, intoning a sort of droning song as they work.

In the country districts life in its most primitive and ancient aspects may be seen. In the rice fields men and women work side by side, their ankles bleeding from contact with the stubble, wielding tools of a pattern as old as the cultivation of the grain.

The evolution of the new Japan from the chrysalis of the old is an interesting study just now. All signs point toward the springing up of a new country, full-fledged, ready to spread its bright wings and fly away from the old, that has wrapped it close for so many centuries; but the time is not yet.

TROOPS GUARD CHELSEA RUINS

Donations for Relief of Sufferers Coming in Fast.

Nothing Can Be Saved as Fire Underwriters View Ruins—Latest Returns Place Loss at $5,575,000.

INSURANCE ONLY $3,500,000.

Boston, April 14.—The total loss by the fire at Chelsea is estimated at $5,575,000 as follows:
Churches and schools . . . $ 525,000
Public buildings 475,000
Factories, business blocks and contents 825,000
Dwelling houses 3,750,000
The insurance of $3,500,000 is divided among about eighty companies. The territory swept by the fire is 350 acres; the number homeless is 10,000; deaths, three.

The work of relief is already well in hand, and subscriptions are so liberal that the mayor of Chelsea has withdrawn a general appeal and confined it to Chelsea.

The burned district was closely patrolled by militia. The work of guard, however, consisted mostly in keeping the people from venturing too near the standing walls.

There was little property remaining to be guarded, so thoroughly had the area been swept by flames. In fact, the underwriters who viewed the ruins today saw no prospect of salvage of any description.

JAMES MOORE ELECTED TO POSITION ON THE FORCE.

Fred Muenzler Is Made Fireman at Central Station—Planning Contract Let.

James Moore, a groceryman, of Tennessee street, was elected to serve on the police force by the fire and police commissioners last night to succeed Edward Alexander, whose resignation was tendered and accepted. Mr. Alexander will enter business.

Fred Muenzler was elected to fill the vacancy in the fire department caused by the resignation of Samuel White, of Central station, who gave up his position some time ago to go to Cairo.

The bids from plumbers to install a toilet room in the fire station at Tenth and Clay streets were opened and the contract was awarded to Ed Hannan, who was the lowest bidder, his bid being $73. The other bids ranged from $150 to $175.

TROUBLE CEASED

When Proper Food Was Found.

Good news benefits both parties—the teller and the one to whom the glad story is told.

A man out in Dakota told another man how he had been set on his feet, as it were, by a good doctor who knew how to treat stomach cases. In a really scientific way—by the use of proper food.

"About five years ago," writes the man, "I was suffering from dyspepsia, gas in the stomach and I was on the verge of nervous prostration when I met a man who told me how he had been relieved of a similar trouble."

"He had suffered with stomach trouble for years as a result of eating improper food. He was at the time I write, doing the work of an ordinary laborer and said he never felt so well."

"His doctor had emptied the stomach and then prescribed nothing but Grape-Nuts, soft boiled eggs, and dry toast. He got well under this treatment. I followed his advice and lived on Grape-Nuts with cream, fruit and toast for a month. My trouble ceased almost immediately."

"The strengthening effect on my nerves was so gradual I can't just tell when I began to improve, but in a few weeks I could sit contentedly for hours whereas before, I was restless and nervous. In a month or two I could sleep the moment I lay down."

"When my little boy was a year and a half old he had a bad attack of indigestion while I was away from home. He vomited four days and nights. I had never seen Grape-Nuts recommended for babies but I decided I would try it. I warmed and softened the food in water that had been boiled, two teaspoonfuls water, three teaspoonfuls rich milk."

"As his stomach got better, I left out the water and used only warm milk. He is now a strong, active child of two years and eats Grape-Nuts three times a day." "There's a reason."

CAN'T SEE CHANCE FOR ANY BUT TAFT WAY ENQUIRER CORRESPONDENT HAS IT

How Figures Point Out Result of Republican Contest for Nomination.

The Cincinnati Enquirer's Columbus correspondent says:

Within a week the season for favorite sons in the presidential contest will have closed. After that the gunning will be in free territory. Today Pennsylvania chose her delegates, and there is a strong indication that they will be for Senator Philander C. Knox for one ballot at least. There are 30 delegates yet to be selected in New York and 4 in Illinois. The same presumption exists that the New York delegates should be for Governor Hughes and the Illinois delegates for Speaker Joseph G. Cannon. Since the bolt of Charles William Barnes, of Albany, and his colleague from that district in New York from Hughes to Taft it is not safe to presume too far on the other representatives from that state. As stated in the beginning Secretary Taft has the favorite sons off his mind. Their states have spoken, and the worst is known. Reviewing the ground and summing up the results, the Ohio candidate should felicitate himself. The results show that he has broken into every state save Indiana and Pennsylvania, and not a single outsider has succeeded in getting a foothold in Ohio. In the Sixth district a second convention has selected two delegates for Senator Joseph Benson Foraker. To again presume, it is safe to say that as between Taft and any other candidate save the senator they would vote for the home product. Therefore it is entirely proper to say that the Taft goal line has not been crossed.

On the other hand, the secretary has secured delegates in New York as against Hughes; in Wisconsin as against Robert LaFollette, and in Illinois as against Speaker Joseph G. Cannon. It is no secret that in at least one Indiana delegation he is the second choice as against Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks. In only 4 states there have been instructions for candidates other than the Ohio man. That is to say, our states outside of those known to have favorite sons. In Missouri one district endorsed Hughes and another instructed for him, but both are contesting delegations. In the First district of Kentucky Fairbanks and Taft have each a set of delegates. In South Carolina, it is said Cannon is the choice of two colored delegates elected at a convention irregular even for that zig-zag country. In several of the southern states some colored delegates have been instructed to support Foraker, but, like the others, they are not scheduled as regular, having been chosen with precipitation and without rules.

The situation, up to the present, in 29 states, 1 territory (New Mexico) and the two insular possessions have selected delegates, and of this number only Delaware, Rhode Island, Porto Rico and Louisiana have not given instructions. As a matter of fact, all of the delegates named in Louisiana are irregular. That section of the party which is authorized to go on the state ballot will hold a convention on May 11, and as a result there will be two sets of delegates. Taft has delegates from every state and territorial possession save Indiana, and the list above given. While the Massachusetts convention yesterday did not instruct its delegates, or even express a preference, the platform declaration is quite satisfactory to the campaign managers here. The admission that a majority of the delegates favored a Taft endorsement is accepted as a fair equivalent for instructions seeing that it stops the mouth of United States Senator Murray Crane.

SULLIVAN

WILL DOMINATE ILLINOIS DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

Bryan Not Pleased With Situation But Big Boss of State Will Be In Control.

Springfield, Ill., April 14.—The Democratic state convention, which is to be held here April 23, will be dominated by Roger C. Sullivan, as Democratic conventions have been for several years. This does not mean that William Jennings Bryan is in any danger of losing the Illinois delegation to the national convention, but it means that on all questions outside of the Bryan endorsement Sullivan will have things his own way. It was conceded by Sullivan some time ago that Bryan could have the Illinois delegation instructed for him, but he reserved the right to control the state convention on all other matters, including the naming of delegates. It looks now as if the Simon-pure Bryan men—the distinguished Democrats who have been fighting Roger Sullivan for several years—would be selected to stay at home, while Sullivan men will be put on the national delegation under instructions to vote for Mr. Bryan. This is exactly what Mr. Bryan protested against a few weeks ago, when he came here to address the State Federation of Bryan clubs. He declared then that only men who are sincerely for him should be allowed to go to the national convention; that he wanted all his enemies "in front of him;" that he "wanted" no more fights with bushwhackers. But, according to present indications, these "bushwhackers" will be found in Denver in the Democratic national convention, voting for Bryan—at least once.

IMPORTANT DECISION.

Laevison's Cremo, Dr. Fizz and Vivo Decided Non-Intoxicating by the Court.

A case of much interest was tried last Tuesday before Judge Emery, where George Ficklin, of this city, was charged with selling intoxicating liquors, and the evidence showed he sold Dr. Fizz, Cremo and Vivo, prepared by A. M. Laevison & Co., and the proof all went to show these beverages were non-intoxicating, and the case was dismissed, as no violation of the law could be proven. The decision of the court will act favorably with the sale of Dr. Fizz, Vivo and Cremo, which are prepared and sold by A. M. Laevison & Co., of this city.

No Sweethearting.

In Cornish chapels the invariable rule is for the men to sit on one side of the building and the women on the other. A visitor and his fiancée, who were staying in the district, went to the chapel, and just before the service began the young man was greatly astonished when the chapel steward, seeing that the couple were seated in the same pew, came over to him, and in an audible voice said: "Come on out of that, me son. We don't ave no sweetheartin' here."

Daily Thought.

"Today, whatever may annoy,
The word for me is joy, just simply joy."

A REAL TRIBUTE.

Let no man go away from this place and state that I have uttered an unkind word of Mr. Taft. He is an able and distinguished American citizen, who has shown himself to be endowed with patriotism and statesmanship, and if he should be nominated, and my strength admits of it, I shall be found fighting his battles as the firing line while many of those who have traduced him are reposing in the shades of their luxurious homes. Thus speaks United States Senator-elect W. O. Bradley, and his statement may be accepted with the degree of credibility accorded in a court of law to a declaration against interest. Secretary of War Taft certainly is a statesman, and just as certainly as Senator-elect Bradley made that statement, he will be called upon to fulfill his pledge to Taft, if he is alive. No one can question the senator's fighting qualities, and he is making a splendid showing for Fairbanks, considering that Mr. Bradley is the only man in Kentucky, who favors Mr. Fairbanks.

THE END OF DEBOE.

Hon. A. S. Bennett, secretary, has at the direction of the chairman of the state central committee, called a meeting of the members in Louisville next Wednesday for the purpose of considering the appeal from the decision of Chairman W. J. Deboe in favor of Fairbanks delegates in the First district. The ex-senator seems to be up against it. What Chairman Ernst will do to him will be a plenty and it must be as pleasant as drawing "a per diem per day" for sleeping in senatorial halls.

The Kentucky State Journal is Democratic through and through, and while it may be depended upon to view the Republican factional situation with equanimity, it cannot be expected to do either side to the controversy, exact justice. Yet, the truth is that Deboe deserves everything the State Journal predicts for him. No more revolutionary methods to control a convention against the will of nearly two-thirds of the delegations and delegates, were ever adopted. If the plain meaning of the rules of the state central committee are to govern presiding officers of conventions, Deboe deliberately ignored the authority under which he was acting, and proceeded to work his own sweet will, anticipating the seating of a quorum before the opposition should desert him, thus giving him the advantage of presiding over a convention in fact, and casting on the opposition the odium of being bolters.

Deboe met his match. The convention was taken away from him, and he never for an instant presided over a body having a quorum. It took him and his sycophants two hours to find out just where they were in their own estimation. It remains for the state central committee Saturday day to show them where they are in the estimation of the good Republicans of the state.

The committee's rules say that in contests those delegations bearing credentials signed by the chairman of their county are to be seated on the preliminary organization. Deboe proceeded to throw out delegations favoring Taft, who bore such credentials, and to seat Fairbanks delegations. Eight of the thirteen county delegations bearing credentials signed by their county chairmen were for Taft. Eighty-seven of the 140 delegates having such credentials were for Taft.

The state central committee has one thing only to decide: Must a temporary chairman, acting contrary to the rules prescribed, or a majority of delegates, insisting on their right to be heard, prevail in a convention of Kentucky Republicans?

AN END TO NIGHT RIDING.

"The tide has turned and the night riders are on the run in Kentucky," says the Owensboro Messenger.

"With such fearless and brave circuit judges as W. M. Reed, who at Benton as well as Paducah, powerfully impressed his grand juries with the supreme necessity of ferreting out these outlaws, the dastardly work of these marauders will soon end. Indictments were quickly returned in Judge Reed's court and the indicted men promptly arrested and put in jail."

"The good effect of his aggressive course has already been felt in the adjoining county of Calloway, where eight or ten night riders have been arrested and jailed, pending the assembling of the grand jury. If Judge Cook will be as fearless and determined as Judge Reed, the disgrace that has been brought upon Calloway can be speedily wiped out."

"It is of interest to note that of the men arrested for night riding in Calloway county only one seems to be a representative citizen. One is an ex-convict, who served a term for counterfeiting; another is also an alleged counterfeiter; others are men who have been arrested before for criminal conduct; still others are wild and irresponsible young boys. They were not accused of visiting punishment upon farmers because of differences on the tobacco question. They were terrorizing their neighbors by night because of private spite and grievances. They were guilty of deviltry for devilry's sake only—chiefly because they revelled in lawlessness."

"This is what night riding would lead to in any section. It would become a cloak for evildoers to vent their spite and spleen upon their better neighbors. But we believe the time has now come in Kentucky when law-abiding men are fully aroused to the great danger of tolerating this form of disorder and they will firmly join in the determination to put a stop to it. Public sentiment has been awakened to the perils of the night riding practices and public sentiment will put a stop to it."

AIR SHIP

WHICH WILL BE SENT UP AT PADUCAH IS FLEET ONE.

Can Be Managed in the Wind and On Return Trip to Lot Is Promised.

The airship America, which is to make flights over Paducah on May 1 and 2, is shown making a trial flight at Chicago a few days ago. The America, which was built for the express purpose of being entered in the international races at Salt Lake City next June, is said to be one of the most modern and most scientifically constructed airships in existence, and at the trial made faster time against a strong head wind than any other ship on record. The America will make at least one return flight to the lot from which it starts, this being guaranteed by J. W. Crawford, general contracting agent. Special excursion rates have been secured for the dates mentioned and large crowds of visitors are expected here that week. Capt. William Mattern, who invented and constructed the America, is one of the most noted and daring aviators in the country, and has the distinction of being the only aviator who ever crossed Lake Michigan in an airship.

HARRY LLOYD TAKES DICK BRAHIC TO VINCENNES.

"Chief" Harry Lloyd and Richard Brahic left this morning for Vincennes, Ind., to play ball during the approaching season. Lloyd is manager of the Vincennes team in the Eastern Illinois league this year, and took Brahic, the star pitcher of the Paducah team, to serve the Eastern league batters with benders. Chief Lloyd has secured a good team, and Monday the team will start exhibition games. It is Lloyd's intention to extend the league to Paducah next year in a revival of the Kitty, and with a little support he thinks the league will be a go. Probably Evansville and Terre Haute will be dropped from the Central league, and if this be done—a complete chain would be made.

Livery Barn Burns at Barlow.

The Moore livery barn burned at Barlow Friday night, causing a loss of several thousand dollars on the vehicles and feed, but all the live stock were saved. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

PROGRESS MADE IN THE HOUSE

Half of Navy Appropriations Are Disposed Of.

No Increased Salary Will Be Allowed Officers of Navy—Aldrich Bill Debated Before House Committee.

BUREAU OF MINES APPROVED

Washington, April 14.—Unlooked for progress was made by the house in consideration of the naval appropriation bill. When it was laid aside for the day it had been one half disposed of, and the advocates of the four battleships proposition were aligning themselves in preparation for a fight on that subject.

Hope of the officers of the navy and marine corps for an increase in pay were dashed to the ground when on the point of order by Madden, of Illinois, the provision for such an increase was stricken out. On a similar point by Madden, of Maryland, the amendment by Bartholdt, of Missouri, prohibiting naval or marine bands accepting private employment in competition with civilian musicians, was lost.

The Senate.

The brief session of the senate was devoted to the transaction of routine business and the delivery of a speech by Scott, of West Virginia, chairman of the committee on buildings and grounds. Scott appealed for adequate appropriations for public buildings in this city, so that official business might be transacted with the greatest efficiency and economy.

The Aldrich Bill.

Washington, April 14.—The Aldrich financial bill as passed by the senate, was handled without gloves by speakers before the house committee on banking and currency, which is considering the measure. With the exception of Charles C. Glover, president of the Riggs National bank of this city, none of those who spoke favored the passage at this time of an emergency clause. Sentiment was almost unanimous that if a permanent financial bill cannot become a law now, no attempt should be made to amend the present laws.

The speakers who followed Glover representing interests in Minneapolis, St. Paul, Boston, New York, Richmond, Va., took issue with his statement that financial conditions have not improved, and said they saw no signs of an impending panic. One of the sections most freely criticised was the LaFollette amendment providing that no national bank association shall invest any part of its funds or deposits in stocks or other securities of any corporations or associations any officer or director of which are officers or directors of such bank association.

The claim was made that this would drive the most desirable men of a community out of the directorate of the bank. An asset currency bill was favored by many speakers, and the appointment of a commission to investigate the whole subject and report to congress was generally favored. Hearings will be resumed tomorrow.

Foraker Offers Amendment.

Washington, April 14.—Senator Foraker introduced an amendment to the railroad rate law passed June 29, 1906, providing that the commodities owned by railroads prior to the passage of the law.

Bureau of Mines.

Washington, April 14.—The house committee on mines and mining agreed to recommend the passage of the bill for the establishment of a bureau of mines in the department of the interior.

By the terms of the bill, it shall be the province and duty of the new bureau "to foster, promote and develop the mining industries of the United States; make a diligent investigation of the methods of mining; safety of miners; possible improvement of conditions under which mining operations are carried on; treatment of ores; use of explosives and electricity; prevention of accidents; alienation of mineral products and markets for same, and of other matters pertinent to the aid of industries, and from time to time to make such public reports as the secretary of the investigations and information obtained with the recommendation of such bureau."

Provision is made for the government of the bureau, under the secretary of the interior, by a commission to be appointed by the president at an annual salary of $6,000.

Car Shot Off Track.

Butler, Pa., April 14.—Sixteen workmen were injured, three probably fatally, at Evans City in a wreck on the Pittsburgh, Harbort & New Castle railway. Twenty-one men were riding in a coal car when the coupling broke and the car shot down a grade and jumped the track over an embankment.

Policeman is Shot.

Chicago, April 14.—Policeman James Shea was found dying with a bullet hole through his lungs. It is not known whether he was murdered or committed suicide.

The MYSTERY

CHAPTER XVIII.

THAT evening I smoked in a splendid isolation while the men whispered apart. I had nothing to do but smoke and to blow my cud, which was bitter. There could be no doubt, however I may have saved my face, that command had been taken from me by that rascal, Handy Solomon. I was in two minds as to whether or not I should attempt to warn Darrow or the doctor. Yet what could I say and against whom should I warn them? The men had grumbled, as men always do grumble in idleness, and had perhaps talked a little wildly, but that was nothing.

The only indisputable fact I could adduce was that I had allowed my authority to slip through my fingers. And adequately to excuse that I should have to confess that I was a writer and no handier of men.

I abandoned the unpleasant train of thought with a snort of disgust, but it had led me to another. In the joy and uncertainty of living I had practically lost sight of the reason for my coming. With me it had always been more the adventure than the story. My writing was a byproduct, a utilization of what life offered me. I had set sail to possess by the sole idea of ferreting out Dr. Schermerhorn's investigations, but the gradual development of affairs had ended by absorbing my every faculty. Now, cast into an eddy by my change of fortunes, the original idea regained its force. I was out of the active government of affairs, with leisure on my hands, and my thoughts naturally turned with curiosity again to the laboratory in the valley.

Darrow's "devil fires" were again painting the sky. I had noticed them from time to time, always with increasing wonder. The men accepted them easily as only one of the unexplained phenomena of a sailor's experience, but I had not as yet hit on a hypothesis that suited me. They were not allied to the aurora. They differed radically from the ordinary volcanic eruptions and scarcely resembled any electrical display I had ever seen. The night was cool. The stars bright. I resolved to investigate.

Without further delay I arose to my feet and set out into the darkness. Immediately one of the group detached himself from the fire and joined me. "Going for a little walk, sir?" asked Handy Solomon sweetly. "That's quite right and proper. Nothing like a little walk to get you fit and right for your bunk."

He held close to my elbow. We got just as far as the stockade in the bed of the arroyo. The lights we could make out now across the zenith, but owing to the preponderance of the cliffs and the rise of the arroyo bed it was impossible to see more. Handy Solomon felt the defenses carefully.

"A man would think, sir, it was a cannibal island," he observed. "All so tight and tidylike here. It would take a ship's guns to batter her down. A man might dig under those here two gate logs if no one was against him. Like to try it, sir?"

"No," I answered gruffly. "From that time on I was virtually a prisoner, yet so carefully was my surveillance accomplished that I could place my finger on nothing definite. Some one always accompanied me on my walks, and in the evening I was herded as closely as any cattle."

Handy Solomon took the direction of affairs off my hands. You may be sure he set no very heavy tasks. The men cut a little wood, carried up a few pails of water. That was all.

Lacking incentive to stir about, they came to spend most of their time lying on their backs watching the sky. This in turn bred a languor which is the sickest, most soul and temper destroying affliction invented by the devil. They could not muster up energy enough to walk down the beach and back, and yet they were wearied to death of the inaction. After a little they became irritable toward one another. Each suspected the other of doing less than he should. You who know men will realize what this meant.

The atmosphere of our camp became surly. I recognized the precursor of its becoming dangerous. One day on a walk in the hills I came on Thrackles and Pulz lying on their stomachs gazing down fixedly at Dr. Schermerhorn's camp. This was nothing extraordinary, but they started glibly to their feet when they saw me and made off, growling under their breaths. All this that I have told you so briefly took time. It was the eating through of men's spirits by that worst of corrosives, idleness. I conceive it unnecessary to weary you with the details.

The situation was as yet uneasy, but not alarming. One evening I overheard the beginning of an absurd plot to gain entrance to the valley. That was as far as detail went. I became convinced at last that I should in some way warn Percy Darrow.

I sent some simple enough proposition, does it not? But if you will stop to think one moment of the difficulties of my position you will see that it was not so easy as at first it appears. Darrow still visited us in the evening. The men never allowed me even the chance of private communication while he was with us. One or two took pains to stretch out between us. Twice I arose when the assistant did, resolved to accompany him part way back. Both times men resolutely escorted us and as resolutely separated us from the opportunity of a single word apart. The crew never threatened me by word or look. But we understood each other.

I was not permitted to row out to the Laughing Lass without escort. Therefore I never attempted to visit her again. The men were not anxious to do so. Their awe of the captain made them only too glad to escape his notice. That empty shell of a past reputation was my only hope. It shielded the arms and ammunition.

As I look back on it now the period seems to me to be one of merely potential trouble. The men had not taken the pains to crystallize their ideas. I really think their compelling emotion was that of curiosity. They wanted to see. I needed a definite impulse to change that desire to one of greed.

The impulse came from Percy Darrow and his idle talk of voodooos. As usual he was directing his remarks to the sullen nigger.

"Voodooos?" he said. "Of course there are. Don't fool yourself for a minute on that. There are good ones and bad ones. You can tame them if you know how, and they will do anything you want them to." Pulz chuckled in his throat. "You don't believe it?" drawled the assistant, turning to him. "Well, it's so. You know that heavy box we are so careful of? Well, that's got a tame voodoo in it."

The others laughed.

"What he like?" asked the nigger gravely.

"He's a fine voodoo, with wavery arms and green eyes and red gloves." Watching narrowly its effect he swung off into one of the genuine old crooning voodoo songs, once so common down south, now so rarely heard. No one knows what the words mean—they are generally held to be charm words only—a magic gibberish. But the nigger sprang across the fire like lightning, his face altered by terror.

"Doan you! Doan you!" he gasped, shaking the assistant violently back and forth. "Dat he King Voodoo song! Dat call him all de voodoo—all!"

He stared wildly about in the darkness as though expecting to see the night thronged. There was a moment of confusion. Eager for any change I hissed under my breath: "Danger! Look out!"

I could not tell whether or not Darrow heard me. He left soon after. The mention of the chest had focused the men's interest.

"Well," Pulz began, "we've been here on this spot for a long time."

"A year and five months," reckoned Thrackles.

"A man can do a lot in that time."

"If he's busy."

"They've been busy."

"Yes."

"Wonder what they've done?"

There was no answer to this, and the men began to talk a new talk.

"I suppose we're all getting double wages?"

"That's so."

"And that's eav four hundred for us and Mr. Egan here. I suppose the old man don't let the schooner go for nothing."

"Two hundred and fifty a month," said I, and then would have had the words back.

They cried out in prolonged astonishment.

"Seventeen months," pursued the legion after a few moments. He scratched with a stub of lead. "That makes over $11,000 since we've been out. How much do you suppose his outfit stands him?" he appealed to me.

"I'm sure I can't tell you," I replied shortly.

"Well, it's a pile of money anyway."

Nobody said anything for some time.

"Wonder what they've done?" Pulz asked again.

"Something that pays big," Thrackles supplied the desired answer.

"Dat chis!" suggested Perdoma.

"Voodoo!" muttered the nigger.

"That's to scare us out," said Handy Solomon, with vast contempt. "That's what makes me sure it's the coast."

Pulz muttered some of the jargon of alchemy.

"That's it," approved Handy Solomon. "If we could get it—"

"We wouldn't know how to use it," interrupted Pulz.

"The book!" said Thrackles.

"Well, the book," asserted Pulz pugnaciously. "How do you know what it will be? It may be the philosopher's stone and it may be one of these other things. And then where'd we be?"

It was astounding to hear this nonsense bandied about so seriously. And yet they more than half believed, for they were deep sea men of the old school, and this was in print. Thrackles voiced approximately the general attitude.

"Philosopher's stone or not, some thing's up. The old boy took too good care of that box, and he's spending too much money to be doing it for his health."

"You know w'at I tink?" smiled Perdoma. "He mak' d'mons. He say dat."

"The nigger had entered one of his black, brooding moods from which these men expected orders."

"Get him ches," he muttered. "I see him full—full of d'mons."

They listened to him with vast respect and were visibly impressed. So deep was the sense of awe that Handy Solomon unbent enough to whisper to me:

"I don't take any stock in the nigger's talk ordinarily. He's a fool nigger. But when his eye looks like that then you want to listen close. He sees things then. Lots of times—he's seen things. Even last year—the Oyama—he told about her three days ahead. That's why we were so ready for her," he checked.

LUTTRELL DENIES

SAYS REPORT FROM MURRAY IS ABSOLUTELY FALSE.

In a telephone message to The Sun this afternoon Mr. Theodore Luttrell branded as absolutely false, the story sent out from Murray yesterday that he had received a third warning from the night riders, who left a knot of rope at his gate and the warning: "This is your last message. If you do not obey orders you will get this. We mean business," signed "Night Riders."

The article in the Times continued as follows: After receiving the third threat Luttrell sent his wife and child to a relative's house and since then he has been boarding in Paducah. Prominent farmers have advised him to move, stating they have heard a great deal of talk and believed the notes came from determined men.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

Wedding of Miss Scott and Mr. Bewley Will Be a Home Ceremony With Reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Scott have issued invitations to the marriage ceremony and wedding reception of their daughter, Miss Marjorie Scott, and Mr. Edwin Elmore Bewley, on Wednesday evening, April 29, at the Scott home, 333 North Ninth street. The marriage will take place at 9 o'clock and the reception is from 9:30 until 11 o'clock. The engagement of Miss Scott to Mr. Bewley was announced several weeks ago.

Miss Scott is one of the most popular of a coterie of charming girls who made their debut winter before last. Her gracious manner and winsome personality have easily emphasized her hold upon a social life that was hers by right of family prominence. She is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Scott and is a strikingly handsome girl of superior mentality. She was graduated with honors from notable old Monticello Seminary at Godfrey, Illinois. A charter member and officer of the Kalosopie club, a leading literary club of the younger set of girls, and prominent in other club work, Miss Scott will be a distinct loss to Paducah club and social life.

Mr. Bewley is a leading young business man and capitalist of Fort Worth, Texas, and belongs to a prominent family of that city. He is the owner of the Anchor Roller Mills, a large flouring mill of Fort Worth and is prominently identified with a number of private corporations. Mr. Bewley's cordial, agreeable manner won him many friends during a recent visit to Paducah.

Miss Scott and Mr. Bewley met when Miss Scott was the guest of her school friend, Miss Anne Stripling, of Fort Worth.

REVIVALS

IN PROGRESS AT TWO METHODIST CHURCHES.

Soul-Winning Sermons Being Preached While Attendance and Interest Are Increasing Daily.

A decided increase in attendance was noticeable last evening at the revival services now in progress at the Broadway Methodist church. Hereafter the night services will be held in the auditorium of the church, which was comfortably filled last night. Dr. Sullivan preached a strong and pertinent sermon based on the text "Knowing the Terror of the Lord We Persuade Men," from 2 Corinthians 5:11. The points made were forcible and logical and he was followed with close attention. The singing was spirited and the choir was accompanied by Mr. Bamberg, of the Third Street Methodist church on the horn.

A number of the ministers of the city were in the congregations.

Dr. Sullivan's topic for tonight is "Christ and the Method of His Revival." This afternoon at 3:30 o'clock he speaks on "Difficulties in the Home for Religious Life." The public is cordially welcome at both services.

Mechanicsburg Revival.

Souls are being saved nightly at the Mechanicsburg Methodist church where the Rev. J. B. Kendall is holding a revival. Meetings are held at 2 and 7:30 o'clock and the attendance and interest are increasing.

The Baptists.

Two splendid services were held yesterday at the First Baptist church in the series of Sunday school lectures, that will be given this week. Dr. H. Boyce Taylor, of Murray, preached two sermons relating to the work on Sunday school, and last night the church was crowded. This afternoon the Rev. W. J. Mahoney, secretary of the state mission board of Kentucky, spoke on "The Teacher Preparing the Lesson." This evening at 8 o'clock his subject will be: "At the Feet of the Master Teacher."

Tomorrow afternoon Dr. Mahoney will speak on "The Evangelistic Spirit in the Sunday School." Dr. Calvin M. Thompson, of Louisville, may not arrive in time Friday evening to speak, but if he does not, the Rev. J. D. Maddox, of Owensboro, secretary of the Ministerial association, will fill the pulpit.

LEWIS, BITTEN BY MAD WOLF, DIES AT CHAFFEE.

Chaffee, Mo., April 14.—Herbert Lewis, who was bitten by a mad wolf on February 23, died here. The wolf, afflicted with rabies, came out of the swamp and ran through the streets here at the time, biting Lewis, Richard Stokes and James Tucker. All three immediately went to St. Louis for treatment. Lewis returned home against the advice of the physicians, without having received full treatment. Stokes and Tucker, who remained for full treatment, are well.

Lewis was 21 years old and was employed in the Frisco pound house.

Fire burned the roof out of a chimney last night at 8:30 o'clock of the residence of Mr. John Rook, 224 North Sixth street. The fire department was called, but no damage was done by the blaze, which was soon extinguished.

NEWS OF COURTS

In County Court.

The will of the late Herman Baumer was entered for probate in the county court. It provides that after his daughters, Laura, Lela and Minnie Baumer are paid $1,000 each, when they are 21 years old, or sooner if they marry, the remainder of his estate is to go to his wife who is made executrix of the estate. Should the wife marry again the estate is to be divided among his daughters equally. Mrs. Baumer is to consult the decedent's brother, before transacting important business. The will was dated March 26, 1908, and witnessed by W. H. Rotgering and Henry Meyer.

No Indictments.

The grand jury yesterday reported they would return no indictments against Henry Hovekamp and Will Husbands for breaking up the "Old Terrell" parade at Fourth street and Broadway during Christmas time, and recommended that the men be dismissed from their bonds.

Fred Wyatt, a Nashville youth, was indicted for robbing Dan Ligon of 25 cents.

Old Housebreaking Charge.

After a year's freedom Ida Scott and George Edwards, colored, were arrested for housebreaking. Last year it is alleged the pair broke into the drug store of Iverson & Wallace, Seventh and Washington streets, by placing a section of fence against the rear window. Both were suspected at the time, but recently Detectives Goureaux and Bailey turned up new evidence, and yesterday afternoon Parbimen Singery and Hessian nabbed the pair and locked them up. Both were held over this morning in police court and their bonds were fixed at $300 each.

Guardian Reappointed.

In order to remove any doubt as to being legally appointed guardian of Rosa Buttrum and Cora Jones, the girls injured in the accident at the basket factory recently, J. W. Williams, who had been appointed on an order signed by the girls, resigned that appointment this morning and was again made guardian on the motion of the girls, who were present. It is understood that the claim for damages against the basket factory and railroad company will be amicably settled without suit being brought.

STATEMENTS FROM PROMINENT PEOPLE IN VARIOUS CITIES

A number of statements from prominent people located in various cities where the widespread discussion over L. T. Cooper's new theory regarding the human stomach has recently waged, give an idea of the intense interest the young man has aroused during the past year. The statements are as follows:

Mr. C. D. Mitchell, 2412 Avenue C, Birmingham, Ala., has this to say with regard to his belief in Cooper's medicine: "I have been troubled with indigestion and stomach trouble for the past year. I had heartburn, bloating after eating, gas on stomach and bowels, palpitation of the heart, pain in the lower part of my back, and various other symptoms, and was a victim of much distress. I tried many remedies, but received little or no benefit from them. I was advised to try the Cooper preparations, and did so. In one week's time I was improved wonderfully—the first relief I had been able to obtain. Mr. Cooper's medicine does all he claims for it."

Mr. J. O. Spradling, of 705 South Tejon street, Colorado Springs, Colo., says: "I was troubled with indigestion for two years. It caused me a great deal of suffering and misery. I did not dare to eat meat at all and everything I did eat soured on my stomach. I tried various remedies, but found no relief. Three months ago I started taking Cooper's New Discovery, and after using the contents of three bottles I was entirely cured. I can now eat and relish anything that my appetite craves. The New Discovery is truly a great stomach medicine."

Mr. William Codler, of 408 Graves street, Syracuse, N. Y., is very strong in his expression of belief in the new medicine, and has the following to say on this subject: "I have suffered from catarrh of the nose and throat for four years. It must have been communicated to my stomach, for all this time my stomach has given me a great deal of trouble, and caused me much pain and suffering. My stomach was often sour, and my food did not digest. I was bothered by a continual desire to spit, and there was a constant dropping of mucus into the throat."

"The first relief I have been able to obtain is from Cooper's New Discovery, which I have been taking for about a week. My catarrhal condition has been greatly improved and my stomach is almost well. Mr. Cooper's medicine has benefited me more than anything I have ever used."

These statements are from reliable citizens in various communities who have tried these celebrated medicines. We sell them and will gladly explain their nature to any one interested.—W. B. McPherson.

LETTERS BY LONGFELLOW

Massachusetts Historical Society Receives Them From a New Orleans Woman.

The stated meeting of the Massachusetts Historical Society was held at its rooms on Boylston street corner of the Fenway, Friday afternoon, the president, Charles Francis Adams, in the chair.

Barrett Wendell, on behalf of Mrs. C. V. Jamison, of New Orleans, presented some letters written to her by Longfellow, 1840 to 1877, together with the proofs of her first novel, entitled "Woven of Many Threads," every page of which shows corrections by Longfellow made with his own hand. These papers record "a deeply characteristic episode" in the poet's life, and tell of a remarkable literary friendship. She met him in Rome in the winter of 1868-69, where she was studying painting; and Longfellow, "discovering that she had made some essays in writing," encouraged her to proceed with them. Upon their completion he volunteered to correct the proofs, and did so. Prof. Wendell read a letter from Mrs. Jamison giving the history of the episode which "beautifully indicated the qualities of his which made him in his life, as in his memory, worthily beloved."

During 1906 the telegraph and telephone poles used in this country amounted to 3,574,666, having an average valuation of $2.65 each.

History of the Thermometer.

Before the seventeenth century men could only judge of the amount of heat prevailing at any place by their personal sensations, and could only speak of the weather in an indefinite way as very hot, cold or very cold. In that century several attempts were made by scientific experimenters by means of tubes containing oil, spirits of wine and other substances to establish a satisfactory means of measuring heat, but none of them proved successful. Even Sir Isaac Newton, who applied his great mind to this work, and also the noted astronomer, Halley, failed in their attempts to produce a heat measure.

It was reserved to Gabriel Fahrenheit, an obscure and poor man, a native of Dantzic, to give to the world the instrument which has proved to be so serviceable to mankind. He had failed in business as a merchant, and, having a taste for mechanics and chemistry, began a series of experiments for the production of thermometers. At first he made these instruments with alcohol, but soon became convinced that the semi-solid mercury was the more suitable article to use in the glass tube.

Fahrenheit was removed from Dantzic to Amsterdam, and there, about the year 1720, he made the mercury thermometer, which has ever since been fashioned much like the original. The basis of his plan was to mark on the tube two points, respectively, at which water is congealed and boiled, and to graduate the space between. He began with an arbitrary marking, beginning with 32 degrees, because he found that the mercury descended 32 degrees more before coming to what he thought the extreme cold resulting from a mixture of ice, water and sal ammoniac. In 1724 he published a distinct treatise on the subject of his experiments and the conclusions that had resulted therefrom.

Celsius, of Stockholm, soon after suggested the more rational graduation of 100 degrees between freezing and boiling point. This was the centigrade thermometer. Reaumur proposed another graduation, which has been accepted by the French, but by far the largest part of the civilized world Fahrenheit's scale has been accepted and used, with 32 degrees as freezing, 55 degrees as temperate, 96 degrees as blood heat and 212 degrees as boiling point.

It is true that the zero of Fahrenheit's scale is a solecism, since it does not mark the extreme to which heat can be abstracted. This little blemish, however, does not seem to have been of any practical consequence.—Washington Herald.

TEACHER "ON HER MUSCLE"

Punishes an Annoyer and Hands Him to Police.

According to a New York special to the Philadelphia Inquirer, Miss Mary H. Hynes, a teacher in Public School No. 109, proved her ability to protect herself from mashers and boys, when she chased, caught and thrashed Abraham Koenig and then turned him over to a policeman.

One day last week, nearing her home, several of Miss Hynes' tormentors appeared and shouted names at her. Unable to endure the insult, Miss Hynes caught one of the young men and gave him a sound thrashing. He was larger and stronger than the teacher, but his size did not deter her from punching him until he begged for mercy.

With two other teachers, one of whom was Miss Lillie Berman, Miss Hynes left the schoolhouse the second time and started for her home. While the three were passing through Sutter avenue a band of young men and boys shouted names at them from the other side of the street.

With Miss Hynes in the lead the teachers started across the street toward their annoyers.

After a run of several blocks they overtook Abraham Koenig. He protested his innocence and fought to get away, but Miss Hynes thrashed and held him until the arrival of a policeman.

YOUNG MOTHERS

A mother who is in good physical condition transmits to her child the blessing of a good constitution; sickly, ailing mothers, the reverse.

The tiny babe brings to her a living responsibility. At such a time too great care cannot be taken to build up the mother's general constitution, and restore her feminine system to a healthy, normal condition. The greatest assistance that any woman can have in accomplishing this all-important work is

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Mrs. M. Gilmer, of West Union, S. C., writes to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

"I was greatly run down in health, suffering from a weakness peculiar to my sex. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I was not only restored to health, but am the proud mother of a fine baby girl. I wish every sick and ailing woman would give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial."

Mrs. Paul Oliver, of St. Martinville, La., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"For years I suffered from the worst form of female troubles, and the doctor said I could not get well without an operation. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored me to perfect health, and I have the sweetest little baby girl. I will never cease to praise Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with the worst forms. Why don't you try it?

LINGUISTIC TRANCE.

Maine Girl Speaks Several Dead Languages Under Spell.

Portland, Me., April 14.—Scientists all over New England are interested in the remarkable trances or autohypnotism of Winifred Knight, 14 years old. In her trances, which are not like those of a person who lies in a comatose condition, the child speaks in Swedish, Hebrew, Sanscrit, Greek, Latin, French, Spanish and Italian.

When not in a trance she can speak nothing but English, and would not be able to tell one dead language from another.

Some of her most remarkable sentences in a recent trance were:

In Hebrew, "He is coming soon."

In Sanscrit, "He will appear."

The child is the daughter of an invalid mother. She has had little of the pleasures of childhood and much of the cares of a woman of years in nursing and in housework. The manifestations have occurred in the town of Newburg, about twenty miles from Bangor. The child goes into a sleep, but she says she knows all that goes on around her.

HIGH PRICED MARE GOES TO GOVERNMENT FARM.

The U. S. government has established two breeding farms to perfect and perpetuate a type of fine horses of the best of American blood, and Kentucky, of course, must supply largely the foundation stock. From "Farmers' Home Journal" of April 11th we note the following: "Mr. A. C. Jones, of North Middleton, Ky., sold to the United States government this week, the saddle bred mare, 'Barthenia McChord,' by Chester-Dare, dam by Peavine, and in foal by Bourbon-King, for $1,000. It seems that this cross of the Denmark mares on the Harrison chief family is as popular with 'Uncle Sam' as with others."

The above fine mare is a sister in blood to Lang's "Rebel Dare," owned in McCracken county.

Room in the South.

There are 27,000,000 acres of arable land in the state of Louisiana and only 6,000,000 of these acres are under cultivation. The secretary of the board of immigration of that state has issued an address to would-be settlers informing them that Louisiana platters with large tracts of land "stand ready and willing to aid every man who is willing to help himself and sell farms on ten years' credit." This invitation is supplemented by the state board of immigration with the statement that they are now trying to cause immigration to the state "by securing men who are willing to farm on shares." The further promise is made that "houses are provided for families who go. We furnish each family with a horse or mule, seed to plant crops and ground and garden trucking implements."

This ought to be a very liberal and inviting offer to the thousands of unemployed in the northern state.—Charleston News and Courier.

WOMEN ARE "POOR LOSERS."

But They Speculate to Large Degree in Wall-Street.

The number of women speculators, says a writer in the World Today, is amazingly large—much larger than even the Wall street habitue would imagine. It is not commonly known, but it is a fact, that many brokerage houses maintain private rooms for their women customers, with more often than not private entrances. There are several reasons for this. One is that many women who speculate do so secretly, without the knowledge of their family, their relatives or their friends. Another reason is that the broker himself desires it, principally, he is confessed, because he is anxious that if there be any "scenes" they shall be private ones, "far from the maddening crowd's ignominious strife"—and sight. For truth compels the statement that women are poorer losers than men. It is the testimony of conservative brokers that a woman gambler is much more of a gambler than a man—much more, that is, in absorbing tenaciousness and almost vindictiveness. She seems to be carried out of and beyond herself to a degree that becomes uncomfortably disquieting when she loses. Even when she is a winner, and, as I have said, the proportion of winners to losers among women is about one to twenty, there seems to be in her satisfaction a kind of maliciousness that is not good to see.

Tickets From Newspapers.

That newspapers are constantly left on the seats in railway trains nobody with the slightest power of observation need be told. On the other hand, few people would suppose that these discarded papers could prove of any value to the company controlling the line. But this is essentially the age for the utilization of waste products and great corporations are quick to own any labor-saving device.

Probably the strangest development in this direction would appear to be that now prevailing in Belgium. Upon the Government railway systems newspapers left in the trains are the property of the Nation, to be used by it for the manufacture of railway tickets. The papers are carefully collected and sent to the head depot where they are reduced to pulp and a special variety of cardboard for ticket purposes is prepared.

Some idea of the amount of raw material readily available to the railway authorities from this source may be gathered from the fact that the accumulation of discarded newspapers upon the whole network of Government railways aggregates about 700 pounds per day, representing over 100 tons per annum. The saving from this source alone, which is no mean one, can readily be calculated.—Chicago Tribune.

The distance around the world via the Trans-Siberian and our own transcontinental railways is shown to be 17,997 miles. The sailing distance around the world from New York via Suez, Singapore, Manila, Guam, the Hawaiian Islands and Panama Canal to New York again will be 23,092 miles.

ITCHING SKIN?

DOCTOR THE SKIN.

People Drinking Medicine for the Blood to Cure Eczema Waste Their Time and Money.

When your face is dirty and grimy you don't drink water to cleanse it. You wash your face with water and you keep your face clean by washing it with water.

Eczema, psoriasis, salt rheum, barber's itch and like skin afflictions are similar to dirt and grime in that they are caused by parasitic germs upon the skin. These diseases cannot be cured by drinking medicine any more than you can cleanse your face by drinking water. Cleanse the skin of these germs by applying the remedy right where the disease exists and the skin becomes white and smooth again.

R. W. Walker & Co. sells simple oil of wintergreen, properly compounded with other soothing vegetable remedies in D. D. D. Prescription, as a positive specific for killing the bacilli and germs in the skin. This D. D. D. remedy is not a sticky concoction or a smeary paste. It is a liquid external wash, as easy and simple to use as water. It is applied right where the itch and sore is. Used with D. D. D. Soap, it is bound to cure. The first application brings instant relief—you will know this the minute you apply the remedy—and the skin once cured, stays cured in nearly all cases. Get rid of that itch right now—today.

EXCITING RUNAWAY STOPS WHEN POLE IS STRUCK

Hundreds of people were witnesses of an exciting runaway on South Third street, about 1:30 o'clock afternoon. A team of horses attached to one of the Noble & Yeiser coal wagons took fright while the wagon was being unloaded near the corner of Third and Washington streets. The driver caught the back end of the wagon, but could not secure the lines, which had dropped under the horse's feet. Just opposite The Sun office the wagon struck the wheels of another heavy rig owned by the Meyers-Schmid Grocery company and the driver was thrown out. The team proceeded at a breakneck speed to the corner of Third street and Broadway where they straddled a telephone pole and were brought to a halt. The tongue of the wagon and the whiffstrees were broken but beyond a few scratches neither of the horses was injured. The driver, whose name is Steger, also escaped unhurt.

Lord Nelson's Tomb.

A London guide was showing an American tourist the famous tomb at St. Paul's. "This, sir," said he, "is the tomb of the greatest naval hero the world ever seen—Lord Nelson. This marble sarcophagus weighs forty-two tons. Hinside that is a steel receptacle that weighs twelve tons, an' hinside that is a lead casket weighing two tons. Hinside that is a mahogany coffin that 'old the ashes of the great hero."

"Well," said the tourist, after a moment's deep thought, "I guess you've got him. If he ever gets out of that, telegraph me at my expense."—Harper's Weekly.

OBSTINATE ULCERS MAY LEAD TO CANCER

There is no difference, at first, in the appearance of a cancerous and a common ulcer, and for this reason every sore that is obstinate or slow in healing should excite suspicion, for the sore is nothing more than the external evidence of a polluted blood, and if allowed to remain may degenerate into cancer. Efforts to heal the ulcer by means of salves/plasters and other external remedies always result in failure, because such treatment can have no possible effect on the blood, where the deadly germs and morbid matter form, and are carried through the circulation to the place. No sore or ulcer can exist without a predisposing internal cause, and the open, discharging ulcer or festering old sore will continue to eat deeper into the surrounding flesh as long as a polluted, germ-infected circulation discharges its impurities into it. S. S. S. goes to the fountain-head of the trouble, and drives out the germ-producing poisons and morbid impurities which keep the ulcer open.

Then as this rich, purified blood goes to the diseased place the healing begins, all discharge ceases, the inflammation gradually leaves, new tissue and healthy flesh are formed, and soon the sore is permanently cured. S. S. S. is made entirely of roots and herbs of a healing, cleansing nature, and unlike mineral medicines, which often do great damage to the delicate parts of the system, S. S. S. tones up every part of the body. Book on Sores and Ulcers, and any medical advice desired free. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

PRINCE POTOCKI ASSASSINATED IN GALICIA PROVINCE

Lemberg, Austria-Hungary, April 13.—Prince Adolph Potocki, governor of the Austrian Polish province of Galicia was assassinated Sunday afternoon by Mieroslaw Szejnyski, a Ruthenian student, while giving an audience to a delegation of students. The assassin fired three shots from a revolver, all of which took effect. The governor died soon afterwards, but first asked his secretary to inform his majesty at once.

"Tell him," said the dying man, "I was his most faithful servant." The assassin did not resist arrest. When led through the governor's ante-chamber he said to the Ruthenian peasants who were waiting for an audience, "I have done this for your sake."

The assassin's brother, who had been informed of the plan to kill the governor, committed suicide shortly before the murder. The affair has caused a great sensation throughout the monarchy. The Potocki family is among the most prominent aristocrats of Polish blood. On learning of the tragedy the emperor sent a message of sympathy.

Many Ruthenians have been arrested, but none as yet have been implicated in the assassination. The assassin declares that he thought it his duty to revenge the Poles for oppression by Potocki's government.

People Who Saved Money.

Figures contained in the official statement of the New York savings banks are worth consideration because they present an important point of view of the financial interests of the masses. During last year the number of depositors in the New York savings banks increased 45,638. The deposits increased $18,363,253, reaching a total of $1,380,399,000. The interest payment for the year increased $2,969,103. It is important to note that of this immense fund held in trust for the masses, $226,649,598, or over one-sixth, is invested in railroad mortgage bonds. A total of $639,343,694, or practically one-half, is invested in stocks and bonds of all descriptions. These figures tell their own story of the intimate connection between the masses and the incorporated property of the country, which demagogues so often identify as the possession of a restricted and privileged class.—Boston Herald.

The cost of hauling coal for its own locomotives is estimated at 2 mills per ton by the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad and the labor of handling it at eight cents a ton.

Looking for imperfection in others never leads us far on the way to perfection for ourselves.

How to Get the Flat Front Figure.

If you want to get the flat front figure, you must learn how and when to exercise. It is useless to take exercise at night when you are tired, and just as useless to exercise before a meal.

There was a woman who gained flesh and lost her figure through playing bridge. Being seated many hours of the day caused her to grow stout and made the flesh gather in the wrong places.

To make an already bad matter worse this woman had ordered her spring wardrobe and the gowns had come home. There were princess gowns with long panel effects in the front, calling for a straight, flat-fronted figure, and there were empires with their curiously short back, also calling for an ideal form! And their owner had grown too stout to be able to wear them.

This woman was a person of energy, and she resolved to remedy matters at once. In her search for the right kind of physical culture she came across a woman who had studied reduction methods in India and found that the system met her needs.

She learned that food could be eaten in plenty provided one exercised afterward. Directly after her lunch she opened the windows of her room and exercised for fifteen minutes. The work was with the arms only. She stood erect, stretched her arms upward, brought them back to the body with a snappy movement and repeated until the fifteen minutes had expired. Her arms may have ached a little, but she knew that she had lost flesh. This should be repeated after each meal.

Don't Lose Over Half Pound Daily. Women who are reducing should know how much weight to lose. If they want they can lose half a pound of flesh a day, but the method is weakening.

A quarter of a pound a day is sufficient for the woman who wants to reduce slowly and steadily, but she must have scales to be sure that her weight does not creep up just when she thinks it is going down. She should weigh herself when she gets up in the morning and again at night. If the weight remains the same, she is losing weight. This may seem strange, but it is true. There need be no change from morning until night.

A woman loses flesh during the night. It is then that she fasts and then that the body becomes wasted. When she wakes in the morning she will weigh a few ounces less than she did when she went to bed. The trick in getting thin is to keep from gaining flesh during the day.

Walking in the open air benefits the complexion. People who are reducing almost always look pasty. They are exercising and dieting and their skins show privation of their daily life. They look sad and dull, tired and worn.

In India the stout person takes the mind cure as well as the physical cure. She says to herself, "I am not hungry." After she has repeated this she takes a walk and engages in something to occupy her mind. So she lets a meal slip by.

Getting the straight front line is partly a matter of correct pose. The woman who rests her weight on her heels will never have a good figure for a princess gown.

Rest Weight On Balls of Feet. She must learn to rest her weight upon the balls of her feet. At first this will make her lame, but she must keep right on.

Wearing thin clothing will make one shapely in the front line. Slim women wear little, but fat women are almost always bundled up in clothing.

Reducing the weight is done differently in different countries. A visitor to Russia came back startled with her experience with its physical culturists.

On the day of her arrival at a country place just out of St. Petersburg a maid knocked on the door and announced that she had come to give her a physical culture bath. The maid produced several very large and very rough bath towels and a long brush supplied with fine wires and the stiffest of bristles.

The maid took the brush and ran it lightly along the back of the lady's neck, fairly lifting the skin. The lady winced and the maid remarked that "my lady" was evidently not accustomed to the wire brush in her own country.

Then came the critical part of the operation. The wire brush was carried briskly over the shoulders and back until the skin was red and glowing. A bath of very cold water had been prepared, and into this the lady was expected to take a dip.

"You will find that it feels warm after your exercise," said the maid. The lady tried it and found it very cooling to her burning flesh.

But it was not until she had emerged from her bath that she felt the invigoration of her experience. She was as light as a feather upon her feet then. She took the treatment for a week and lost nearly five pounds.

In Denmark when a lady gets too stout she is urged to get out upon the hills and tend the sheep. She has fresh milk to drink and she also eats fruit and herbs. She lives in the open and she loses weight.

The Colorado Way. The so-called Colorado treatment consists in sleeping out of doors in a sleeping parlor built with sides of Japanese matting to keep the wind from blowing upon you. Only two pieces of bedding are required. There must be a German feather bed to place upon the floor of the sleeping parlor, and another feather bed to be drawn over the sleeper.

Both beds must be very large. The one to be used on top is fully ten feet square. It can be tucked in on all sides, and when the snow blows it can be drawn partly over the head. In summer there is a feather bed of lighter weight.

The principle of reducing the weight by open air sleeping is that of the lungs, being fairly supplied with oxygen, will do better work. They will draw in deep breath and so be able to burn up the fat.

English women are slim because they keep their homes cool. Women who fill their rooms with fresh air are slimmer, as a rule, than those who sit in an over-heated atmosphere. The lungs do better work under the circumstances.

Keep cool if you want to get thin; bear your weight upon the balls of your feet; take deep breathing exercises after each meal; and, of course, walk as much as you can. It is no use to starve yourself unless you exercise at the same time.

Our Musical Standard.

There is no pretense which the foreign artist dreads more than the first performance in America. This is because the American musical public is so intelligent and so discriminating that nothing except the very best meets with its full approval. It may, therefore, be interesting and surprising news to the intelligent layman to hear that the American musical critic is regarded in Europe as the most exacting and uncompromising reviewer on the face of the globe. In what we are pleased to call the "old country" the attitude of the critic is a pose of paternal tolerance; while here, when we are asked to pay a high price for the privilege of listening to the callow fledgling from abroad, the process of elimination is ruthless and instantaneous, exterminating. Naturally it is logical that now it is conceded by eminent foreign musicians that the standards of musical art are more elevated in America than anywhere else on earth. And it is admitted, says Arthur Kruckman in Burr McIntosh Monthly, even if somewhat grudgingly, that New York City is today practically the foremost musical center in mundane existence. It is well known that in the matter of dramatic criticism the rest of the country will not take the New York critic's judgment as decisive. You know that many shows which fail in New York have great success as soon as they leave the metropolis. But the musical critic in New York City is being so well equipped for his important office that the rest of the country trusts his judgment implicitly, and what he condemns after the premiere at the Carnegie or Mendelssohn Hall or the Opera house is condemned throughout the length and breadth of this wide country.—Louisville Herald.

THE TRUTH ABOUT KIDNEY TROUBLE.

(Physical Weakness.)—When there is a pale, pasty complexion that persists in spite of diet and careful living, or where there is physical weakness that likewise resists the usual treatment, the kidneys are to be suspected.

Food often does people with kidney disease very little good.

Instead of storing in the system the albumen, starches and sugars that our food releases the inflamed kidneys deflect them, and tests disclose them in the eliminations unused. The patient grows weaker and weaker, and as the kidneys are not sensitive there is usually no pain and there appears to be no cause for the continued weakness. In such cases a test for albumen may disclose a strong percentage of the strength of the food in the eliminations unused, but, as albumen can not be seen and is only disclosed through chemical tests, the patient, unless he is in the hands of a physician, often has no line on his difficulty, and thousands of such cases grow unwittingly into the supposed chronic, incurable stage.

In these cases Fulton's Renal Compound acts definitely, but quite slowly for the inflammation is usually of considerable standing and permanence. As in the other cases of inflammation of the kidneys Medical Works have nothing but diet and symptomatic treatment, both of which have proven futile in these chronic cases.

As Fulton's Renal Compound reduces the inflammation, the albumen will be found to be gradually decreasing and recovery slow but definite in about 87 per cent of all cases.

The Reason.

It was Washington's birthday, and the minister was making a patriotic speech to the children of the second grade.

"Now, children," he said, "when I arose this morning the flags were waving and the houses were draped with bunting. What was that done for?"

"Washington's birthday," answered a youngster.

"Yes," said the minister, "but last month I, too, had a birthday, but no flags were flying that day, and you did not even know I had a birthday. Why was that?"

"Because," said an urchin, "Washington never told a lie."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Only One Ticket.

"Alert?" said Senator Hopkins of Illinois of a colleague the other day.

"Why, he is as alert and clever as the Aurora bridegroom. You know how bridegrooms setting off on the honeymoon have a way of forgetting their brides and buying tickets only for themselves. Well, that is what this bridegroom did in Aurora. And when his wife said to him, 'Why, you only bought one ticket, dear,' he answered readily: 'By Jove, dear, I never thought of myself.'"

CIGARETTE LEAST HARMFUL. Pipe is Next, But the Cigar is the Most Noxious of All.

Smoking nowadays is so common, tolerated in the house, and even in the drawing-room a cigarette is sometimes permitted. The smoking of a cigar, pleasant though it may be to the smoker, and however irreproachable its quality, is banned by most careful housewives in their sanctuaries because its reek is so persistent, says the London Lancet. The stale smell of cigar smoke in a room is peculiarly unpleasant and peculiarly difficult to get rid of. It clings to the curtains and to most of the articles of furniture which present any sort of an absorbent surface. It is not so to the same extent with cigarettes or with pipes. In the case even of a single cigar, books, papers and textiles reek of its stale flavor, and the room requires abundant airing before that flavor is completely eliminated.

Air is an excellent scavenger, but ozone is more active in removing the smell. The effect may be traced to the fact that the smoking of a cigar produces a larger quantity of pungent aromatic oil than does the smoking of a cigarette or pipe. In the case of the cigarette oils are probably burned, even if they are formed in the pipe they condense in the stem, while in the case of the cigar they are probably for the most part discharged into the air. In the form of a cigar tobacco would appear to produce more oils than in the form of a cigarette or when burned in a pipe.

Such common observations are not without hygienic significance. Pyridine, the most poisonous oil produced in the semi-combustion of tobacco, is an abundant product of cigar smoking, as it is also in the pipe, but in the latter there is condensation, while in the former there is little or none. In the cigarette, so intimately in contact with the air is the burning portion, that the production of distilled oils is, comparatively speaking, trifling.

The symptoms of tobacco smoke poisoning are not necessarily due to nicotine; they are more often due to pyridine, or poisoning from the tobacco tar oils. The tobacco heart is more often traceable to free indulgence in cigar smoking than to a similar indulgence in the pipe and the cigarette. Young boys can smoke to their great damage, nevertheless—a considerable number of cigarettes or even pipes, but an equivalent in cigars more than satisfies their tobacco appetite, so soon are the toxic effects of cigar smoking made apparent to them. The danger of excessive cigarette smoking is that though no marked symptoms may be manifested, or experienced, yet in the long run decided harm is done, and a dangerous habit, akin to "nipping," is cultivated, which is often found very hard to abandon.

A Canine Curio. Two or three dogs are nearly always to be found loafing about every blacksmith's shop. This fact is so well-recognized that detectives, when sent out after valuable dogs that have been lost, invariably visit first all the blacksmiths' shops in the neighborhood.

The reason why dogs frequent the blacksmiths' shops is that they love inordinately the odor and the taste of burning hoofs. They sniff the odor as a woman sniffs a rose, and they eat the hoof parings as a gourmet eats truffles.

Landseer, the great animal painter, knew this odd fact well, and in his famous picture of "The Smith's Shop" a dog in the foreground is greedily munching slivers of toasted hoof.

Wissen four Alle had a symposium to discuss the value of salt in digestion. One of the physicians wrote that, while salt in moderation is good for the stomach, and often absolutely necessary, it ought to be taken apart from the meals, in much the same way as medicine. He bases his judgment on the way the artificial digestion proceeds in the presence of marine salt.
